

A wonderful garden for special events

The Alnwick Garden is a truly unique setting for the most wonderful events

It's one of the most exciting contemporary gardens in the world; a magical landscape created from unique ideas. The vision of the Duchess of Northumberland and designed by the world-renowned Wirtz International, The Garden mixes eclectic gardens, planting, structures and features, and brings them to life with water. From the world-class contemporary architecture of The Pavilion to the quirky treetop spaces of The Treehouse, The Garden is a special place to hold weddings, parties, dinners, conferences, meetings and exhibitions.

The Pavilion and Visitor Centre

THE STAGE FROM WHICH THE GARDEN IS PRESENTED

Designed by leading British architect Sir Michael Hopkins, The Pavilion and Visitor Centre is the theatrical entrance to The Garden, with beautiful views of the landscape and the Grand Cascade. The contemporary buildings have been created using a blend of wood, steel and mellow stone, with an exposed structural frame and a high timber barrel-vaulted roof. The Pavilion also features the beautiful 18th century original garden wall, which brings warmth and a sense of The Garden's rich history.

The bespoke design uses transparent materials and merges indoor and outdoor spaces, with covered and outdoor terraces featuring tiny twinkling lights in the paving. There's a feeling of light and space, and the understated backdrop and natural palette give the freedom to create any environment from the simplest to the most extravagant.

The buildings have environmentally and technologically advanced features, including energy from geothermal bore holes, water harvesting and a store of glacial rocks to control temperatures.

The Treehouse

QUIRKY TREETOP SPACES AND FASCINATING STRUCTURES

High in mature lime trees outside the walls of The Garden is The Treehouse, one of the largest in the world. The Treehouse is so at home in its environment that it appears to have been there for many years, and the experience is nothing if not unusual.

Wooden walkways climb up into the treetops, and across a decked veranda with walkways and bridges leading out into the tree canopy. On the veranda, featuring tables and chairs and The Treehouse bar, is The Treehouse restaurant, a unique and surprisingly spacious structure. When inside, the roaring log fire, soft light and screens created of fallen branches, create an otherworldly magical environment. With distinctive handcrafted furniture and glowing candles, the space is warm and characterful.

Eating and drinking

LOCALLY-SOURCED AND DELICIOUSLY PREPARED MENUS

The Alnwick Garden's menus feature the best of local produce, from Northumberland's growers, producers and farmers, and change with the seasons. Featuring local fish and seafood, organic meats from Northumberland's farmlands and other regional specialities, they are deliciously satisfying.

From afternoon teas and buffets to canapés and dinners of many courses, there are varied menus for every occasion, and new dishes can be created for individual tastes. There's also a fantastic wine list, and a good range of beers, soft drinks and cocktails. Adding lovely service in special surroundings, The Alnwick Garden creates memorable events.
